MISS DORIS STEVENS

Mt. Airy Road, Croton-on-Hudson, New York

May 17, 1946.

Dear Miss Mistral:

It caused both joy and sorrow in my heart to read your excellent statement in the New York Times of May 11th: joy that your eloquent voice should be raised for equality; sorrow that you did not stay on the Women's Sub-Commission to counteract less worthy concepts.

It is a pity that so often equalitarians, by nature tolerant, do not like to fight. The more aggressive appear to be on the non-equalitarian side! I appreciate your not wanting to be a "partisan." However, you will always be a powerful symbol to women who care about the dignity and destiny of their sex. The idea of the beauty and importance of the individual man and woman may still prevail against the current sweep toward the "protective" State.

With blessings on the continued fruitfulness in your many and noble undertakings, I remain

Your faithful and long-time admirer

Doris Stevens
