Srta. Gabriela Mistral,
Consulado de Chile,
Vera Cruz, Mexico.

Dear Srta. Mistral:

The Houston Pan American Round Table, of which I am director, would like to invite you to make us a brief visit some time in the months to come - probably between mid-February and mid-April. We should probably plan a luncheon at which we could have guests, and of course your talk would be the chief feature of the luncheon. (I am assuming that you speak English; you do, do you not? Unfortunately not all of our group can understand Spanish, and it is necessary to have our talks in English always.)

We are not a money-making organization, but a group of women - one of a number of such groups in this part of the world, and also in certain countries to the south of us - organized with the aim of coming to know and understand better the women of the other Americas. We have never yet had any one from Chile with us; it would be a great privilege to have you.

We could pay for your round-way ticket by air, answer for your expenses while here (we should probably place you in a private home (of one of our members) during your stay, and probably allow $100 from the treasury. I realize that that is not much to offer, but we thought that perhaps you too would be interested in our endeavors, and might be able to come even under these circumstances. Few of us have ever met Chilean women.

I do hope you will think you can come! Won't you please write to me right away what you think about it?

With warmest greetings,

Sincerely yours,

Edgar P. Soule
