

Hi Doris. For you the strains of "La Vie en Rose" through a pink grey Lencero morning, or the drift of an evening swim -- what fever did Gabriela say we risked inviting? -- are much farther away than for me, so you will have to create for yourself the picture of my bursting excitement at the prospect of being able to see you both again, just as if the days at El Lencero were only last week.

I am relying on your both loving Mexico enough to want to see me. Last Christmas we spent in Merida --that is, Chichen Itza and Uxmal -- and last summer I attended the Indianist section of the Historical Congress, at Papantla and Jalapa.

I'd like to be in Naples the first part of October. Bad time to see Gabriela? Good time? Please sit yourself down with what substitutes for Dos Equis and write me a note. Do you know of a humble hotel?

Fondly and bursting,

Anita
