26th February, 46

Dear Madam,

May I thank you most heartily for your letter dated February 21st and the kindness of sending me some notes concerning Gabriela Mistral. I at once got into touch with her secretary and was lucky enough to be given a long interview at the Claridge Hotel.

I have written a short appreciation for the excellent Swiss paper "Basler National Zeitung", for which I have been working for many years.

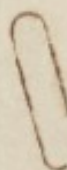

Now I want to prepare a careful chapter intended to conclude a book on outstanding contemporary women. It would be of great value to me if I could borrow the books of Gabriela Mistral and though my Spanish is not very good I am perfectly able to read them.

As you have already so kindly helped me perhaps you would be good enough to let me know where I could procure these writings just for a short period.

With my reiterated thanks,

Yours very sincerely,

Adele Schreiber
