Dear Srta. Mistral,

I am deeply regretful at the circumstances regarding your book. I feel that the point of view in publishing in North America is quite different from that of Latin America, and that the selection thus made would not be a happy one for us. As I wrote you, I would not want to publish anything but what our readers would regard as representative good work of you.

I hope that you have not been inconvenienced by our original hope and expectation of being your publisher here, and that at some future time you will have a book that we will both agree will be representative of the greatest of your work and will be the right material to publish in this country.

Again with deep regrets and regards and hoping to see you when you return to New York,

Yours sincerely,

Blanche Knopf
Mrs. Alfred A. Knopf
