Dear Senorita Mistral:

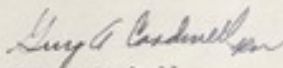

Thank you for the cordial letter of November 27 addressed to me through Senorita Petrona Noda. I sincerely regret that you have not been very well, and I tender my apologies for writing again in connection with my desire to include brief extracts from your distinguished writings in an anthology of readings in the field of American civilization that I expect to publish this spring or summer for use as a college text. The book will be produced by the Ronald Press Company, 15 East 26th Street, New York 10.

I should like very much to reprint a brief essay entitled "The Gulf and the Bridge," which appeared in the magazine Free World, February, 1943, pages 171-173. I am writing to the editor for permission to use the essay, but I also wish to know that you, too, grant me your permission.

The second selection that I should like to use appeared under the title "Silhouette of the Mexican Indian Woman" in the anthology entitled The Green Continent, published by A. A. Knopf, edited by German Arciniegas. I am writing to Knopf today for permission to use the translation.

Please accept my regrets for troubling you thus, but I am not sure how else to secure the desired permissions. Random House, Inc., to whom you directed me in your letter of November 27, says that it has no control over your writings.

Respectfully yours,

Guy A. Cardwell
