Gentlemen:

I received your letter of June 18, 1946, which I did not answer before because I was not home.

"THE PRAYERS OF A MISTRESS" is a short article in press, and not the name of a book. My books are:

"DESCOLACION"
"TALA"
"TERRURA"
"LECIURAS PARA MUJERES"

Reader's Digest will publish my own biography. After this publication, I believe you could offer them an article from me each three or four months.

I would appreciate it very much if you could inquire if the International issue of "Life" magazine will be permanent and if so, to approach them with the same offer.

These articles could be descriptions or comments about the Latin-American countries, as I have lived for several years in most of them, and also 17 years in Europe.

Very truly yours,

Lucile Godoy
(Gabriela Mistral)
