Miss Gabriela Mistral
Monrovia, California

Dear Miss Mistral:

We shall ofcourse be glad to handle requests to reprint your poems. As you know there is little revenue in granting permissions, but there should certainly be control of such requests and we customarily do this for the authors we represent. The fees charged are small. They depend on the length of the work to be reprinted and the number of copies of the book which are expected to be sold. The price charged usually ranges between $10 and $25.

{ It will be necessary, however, for us to have original editions in which the poems first appeared, and we ought to know whether the copyright for such books is in your name or in the name of the original publisher. }

I have a copy of James Van Alen's letter to you, dated 10 October, and I shall keep in touch with them with respect to the progress of the book of poetry.

Yours sincerely,

Armitage Watkins
