Dear Miss Salora:

In my opinion it would be best to present Miss Mistral's poems to the English-speaking public in translations by someone like Roy Campbell. Mr. Campbell is now in London and works for the BBC. His name has been highly recommended.

Should Miss Turnbull's translations be used, however, they should very definitely be revised under the eye and with the suggestions of Miss Mistral herself, and, of course, the final work should have the full and complete approval of the author and her advisers.

I am uncertain as to what has already been done by Mrs. Biddle. Are the poems on which she worked available to you? If they are, we should very much like to see them.

Sincerely yours,

Armitage Watkins
