Dear Miss Salera:

I cannot give a first-hand recommendation for translators for the prose work of Miss Mistral because I do not read Spanish sufficiently well to be a judge. I am informed, however, that a Spaniard named Gilli has translated Lorea ably and faithfully; that Albert Lancaster Lloyd, an Englishman whose address I have, is competent; that there is a man named Dibel in Washington; that Professor Onis of Columbia University is outstanding; and there is Mildred Adams who is the translator of Ortega y Gasset.

I hope this is helpful.

Sincerely yours,

Ann Watkins
