Re: Gabriela Mistral - Third Edition

Gentlemen:

On February 24 we sent to you by registered mail the manuscript of E de Caceres introduction (pp. 1 - 84). This was released by Miss Dana inclusion in your forthcoming new edition.

We are sorry about the state of the manuscript. Some of the carbon are hard to read; if you feel that you cannot possibly set from this let me know, and I shall endeavor to have the author make available the ribbon copy which, however, would first have to be checked for corrections.

Included with the material sent were fifty manuscript pages of Varie Notes which Miss Bates prepared for inclusion in your edition. Since sending you this material, however, Miss Dana has concluded that the Notes are not suitable for a general trade edition of Gabriela Mistral poetry and should more properly be published in some other form, per a research paper. Will you, therefore, kindly return to my office the complete manuscript of this section by registered mail?

A page or two of errata notes are still to come to you, and if they not included with this letter, will be sent within a few days. Miss asks that proofs of the entire preface and of those pages which need corrections be sent to her, care of my address. If you will give us so advance notice as to when to expect this material, she will arrange check and return it to you within no longer than a week.

Sincerely,

Joan Daves/rn
cc: Doris Dana
