1. The first step is to identify the problem or question that needs to be answered. This involves understanding the context and the specific requirements of the task.

What is the best way to find out if you are a good fit for a job? The answer is to ask the right questions. The first question to ask is: "What are the most important qualities for this job?" The next question to ask is: "What are the most important skills for this job?" The third question to ask is: "What are the most important experiences for this job?" The fourth question to ask is: "What are the most important personality traits for this job?" The fifth question to ask is: "What are the most important values for this job?" The sixth question to ask is: "What are the most important interests for this job?" The seventh question to ask is: "What are the most important goals for this job?" The eighth question to ask is: "What are the most important challenges for this job?" The ninth question to ask is: "What are the most important opportunities for this job?" The tenth question to ask is: "What are the most important risks for this job?" The eleventh question to ask is: "What are the most important rewards for this job?"
