Dear Doris:

An afterthought to your letter regarding the proposed agreement with Johns Hopkins Press: I really don't see why the publishers should offer you royalties based on net receipts and would suggest that we ask for the usual percentages based on the list price of the bound copies. The standard sliding scale of royalties is 10% for the first 2,500 or 3,000 copies sold, 12.5% up to 10,000 and 15% thereafter.

Further, I feel there should be an advance which might be split between the date of delivery and publication; $1,000.-- would be the minimum sum acceptable.

Yours,
Joan
