Dear Miss Dana,

I was very pleased to have your letter of the 20th, ultimo for which I thank you. I was both sorry and glad that you were in hospital because thus I can understand why you did not write to me and you can imagine that I had been worried; I advanced this money and got refunded by Kepelusz after you sent the receipt.

When the Estate gets organized I look forward to receiving further news from you. We are working very little on behalf of Spanish language authors but we could be useful. We represent, as you know, Juana de Ibarbourou and we have obtained as much as US$700.— advance for a short book of poetry published by Zig-Zag in July. She has received as much as US$250.— for choosing poetry for an anthology. Gabriela Mistral was a poetess and did not care much for money, and she must have been unlucky with some of her publishers, as you hinted.

With best wishes,

Yours sincerely,
