Dear Doris:

Here you are, and here is Mistral again in ATLAS. I do especially want to thank you for making these poems available to us. We are proud to present them.

I sent the other two first to John Fischer of HARPER's who praised them but returned them. - He said regretfully, since they had had too much poetry recently. Then I sent them to the Literary Editor of HARPER'S BAZAAR. She too admires them but said no. I think it best therefore to give them back to you.

With all good wishes,

Sincerely,

Eleanor Davidson Worley

P.S. Somehow, somewhere - the originals have not come immediately to light. In the meantime we are returning the stans we made of them before submitting them to other editors.
