Dear Miss Duncan:

In answer to your letter of March 2, 1965, I am glad to know of your interest in Gabriela Mistral. Without knowing more about your proposal, I cannot, of course, give my written permission for publication.

Any publication of Gabriela's poems would have to go through my agent who handles all the details of the contract, and I would need to see the translations themselves.

I am leaving this week for a few weeks in London, so may I suggest that either you or the prospective publisher get in touch with my agent Miss Jean Daves, Rodell & Daves, 145 East 49th St., New York, New York. She will handle this for me while I am away.

With very best wishes,

Loris Dana
