Dear Miss Mistral:

In connection with the Indiana University Poetry Series, now well established, we are considering with interest and enthusiasm the possibility of translating a book of selections from your work. We hope that you will share our enthusiasm for such a project and let us know, assuming that you approve of a translation^{into} English, what candidates there might be available as translator. We have in mind 1957 publication for such a translation.

In case you are not familiar with the eight distinguished books already published in the Poetry Series we are taking the liberty of sending you under separate cover Rolfe Humphries' translation of THE GYPSY BALLADS OF GARCIA LERCA.

We shall be eager to have word from you.

Cordially yours,

Bernard B. Perry
