Dear Amparo Soler,

I have just received your letter of December 2nd, and was very sorry to have missed seeing you on your recent visit to the U.S.A. At the time you were here I was down in Kentucky on a visit to Thomas Merton at the Abbey of Gethsemani.

I am sorry that the manuscript for the critical editions of DESOLACION prepared by Margaret Bates did not meet with the specifications and criteria of Editorial Castalia.

Your assessor's judgement about not doing critical editions for modern authors is quite understandable. Your suggestion about doing a definitive edition of DESOLACION for your new collection "Clasicos Castalia" seems to me a very good one. I will be in touch with Margaret Bates about this matter in the very near future.

Let me express to you again how much I enjoyed my meeting with you in Madrid and again how sorry I am not to have seen you here in the United States.

With all best wishes for Christmas,

Doris Dana
