Dear Doris:

This package contains: 1) The cotejo de variantes, pages 1-50. This should begin on page 808.

2) list of errata - (one page)

3) "Títulos antiguos que han sido cambiados" - to be included after the "Índice alfabético de títulos" as another index on page 816. (Somebody might be looking for the poem with the old title) (one page)

TOTAL - 52 pages to go to Aguilar.

Many critical editions have the variants at the foot of the page but since Aguilar is more on the popular side I thought the best way would be to have the "Cotejo" at the end for those who would be interested in consulting it. To have notes at the foot of the page would be annoying to many readers. It would be much easier for Aguilar to print in this way, easier and cheaper, since he would not have to use different types.

If Aguilar keeps the prologue in roman numerals there should be no reason to change the pagination of the texts of the poems, pages 1-799. My "Cotejo" notes refer to this pagination.

So much for Aguilar. I do hope your back is better and that we shall be seeing you soon. We have had a spell of boiling weather which lifted yesterday. Today is a Spring day and we are trying to recover.

Mucho love,

M.B.

The dissertation on the variantes has gone out to many scholarly reviews which will call attention to the Aguilar edition and perhaps help sales.
