Dear Prof. Torres-Riosoco:

Some time ago Francisco Aguilera of the Hispanic Foundation of the Library of Congress told me that the University of California Press was interested in receiving manuscripts on Gabriela Mistral.

Do you think the University Press would like to publish the critical edition of one of her books (Desolación, Ternura, Tala, Lagar)? As you know, the Poesías completas (Madrid, Aguilar, 1938-first ed., 1962-second ed.) is the definitive edition of all the poems she published in the books mentioned above. In the preparation of this edition she consulted variants I had collected. The definitive edition with the variants would constitute the critical edition. If you think the Press would be interested, I should be glad to give you further details. The final arrangements, since copyright would be involved, would have to be made with Gabriela's literary heir, Doris Dana.

Very sincerely yours,

Dr. Margaret Bates

Dear Doris:
I called you about a week ago.
Finally I have gotten around to giving the Univ. Presses.
