Dear Eric,

I have now had a chance to discuss your letter of January 31st with Miss Doris Dana, the heir and executrix of the Mistral estate. I am relieved to report that of all the Mistral works only LAGAR which is not the major one, was first published in Chile. I am attaching to this letter a listing of the four volumes from which a selection of poems might be made, giving you the year and place of first publication.

Will you now let me know whether Italy and the countries involved beside Chile have reciprocity agreements? As you can imagine this is a most important point for us; the feeling here is that if any Italian publisher takes advantage of the situation existing in relation to LAGAR, he may find that this would be a short-sighted policy because no other Mistral material in copyright would be made available to him. I'll look forward to hearing from you soonest.

Yours,

Joan Daves/bg
