Dear Doris:

Just received a copy (just published--1955) of LIBRERIA DEL SIGLO XX, edited by Margarita and Ernesto de Cal. It has two selections from me--"Balada," and "Carts," pp. 221-222. In the introduction, p. viii, "For their gracious permission to reproduce the Spanish texts, we are indebted to..." there is not mention of me. It's a nice anthology published by the Dryden Press, 200 Fourth Ave., New York, 16, N.Y. You might know about it.

Sent this morning two packages to Spruce Street: the plastic bottle for the baby's milk--took the milk out--put it in bottle, not my stomach--I owe you a fifth almost of milk; in the other box: the "enish music with introductions and a picture that I put in a frame...tell Gilda I decided on that light pink since it was destined for you who liked the picture for the mother's expression which was a light pink, baby pink. Have to run to class. Much love to all

M. B.
