

THE FORD FOUNDATION
477 MADISON AVENUE
NEW YORK 22, N. Y.

April 8, 1957

The Ford Foundation yesterday reported payment of $305,300 in grants to thirty university presses to stimulate the publication of scholarly works in the humanities and social sciences.

The grants were made under a five-year program supported by a $1,725,000 appropriation approved by the Foundation in 1956. It is expected that the program will provide for the publication of at least 250 additional scholarly volumes over the five years and also eliminate the need for direct subsidy by the authors of a like number of books.

At least fifty per cent of the grants made under the program must be used for books written by scholars outside institutions where any eligible press is located.

In selecting university presses eligible for grants, the Foundation has been advised by a committee consisting of Chester Kerr, secretary, Yale University Press; Taylor Cole, professor of political science, Duke University; and Kerker Quinn, editor of Accent, a quarterly of new literature.

The thirty presses receiving recent payments are listed alphabetically as follows:

University of California Press	University of Nebraska Press
The University of Chicago Press	University of New Mexico Press
Columbia University Press	The University of North Carolina Press
Cornell University Press	University of Notre Dame Press
Duke University Press	University of Oklahoma Press
University of Florida Press	University of Pittsburgh Press
The University of Georgia Press	Princeton University Press
Harvard University Press	Rutgers University Press
The University of Illinois Press	Southern Methodist University Press
Indiana University Press	Stanford University Press
The Johns Hopkins Press	Syracuse University Press
University of Kentucky Press	University of Texas Press
Louisiana State University Press	University of Washington Press
The University of Michigan Press	The University of Wisconsin Press
University of Minnesota Press	Yale University Press
