

Saturday evening.

My Darling,
 I love you. I can't bear it to see you suffer, you have the right to be happy! We love each other, here is your happiness and you won't take it. Why do you want to go on to be a slave of the tyranny of that woman. She is simply unbearable, following you everywhere. You are like a prisoner. Why? Aren't you a free man? She hasn't any right to treat you like that. Don't be weak, that means that you are too good to her. To be too good is no good and you have to bear the bad consequences of it.

You don't need to go on depending on her. I could do all her secretarial work, I would love to help you.

It is better to talk everything over. You promised to write me a long letter, but I haven't received anything yet.

Let us meet Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the same pasteleria as before, and if you don't receive this letter in time, then on Tuesday at the same hour. Don't fail to come. I command you, my darling Prince, lovingly
 Princess

[Carta entre 1951 y 1957] [a] Joaquín Edwards Bello [manuscrito] María Hagenaar (Princess).

AUTORÍA

Autor secundario:Edwards Bello, Joaquín, 1887-1968

FORMATO

Manuscrito

DATOS DE PUBLICACIÓN

[Carta entre 1951 y 1957] [a] Joaquín Edwards Bello [manuscrito] María Hagenaar (Princess). 1 h. ; 26,5 x 20,6 cm.

FUENTE DE INFORMACIÓN

Biblioteca Nacional Digital

INSTITUCIÓN

Biblioteca Nacional

UBICACIÓN

Avenida Libertador Bernardo O'Higgins 651, Santiago, Región Metropolitana, Chile