Although the authors acknowledge that the literature on the effects of the 1997 amendments is limited, they argue that the amendments have had a positive impact on the environment. They argue that the amendments have led to a reduction in the number of violations and a decrease in the severity of the violations. They also argue that the amendments have led to an increase in the number of inspections and a decrease in the number of violations.
