Abstract

Abstract

1. The first step is to identify the problem or question that needs to be answered. This involves understanding the context and the specific requirements of the task.

The 2 additional control participants, however, were only required to complete either a 10-minute or a 20-minute session, depending on the number of the control condition assigned to them. The 2 control participants were not required to complete the 30-minute session as they were not assigned to any of the 3 conditions.

The researchers also asked to see the people's most recent tax forms. "When I look at someone's tax return," says Thomas Piketty, "I know what he or she has done in the past. But not what he or she is doing now. The only way to know what he or she is doing now is to go to the tax authorities and ask them for the information."
