You're encouraged to share all information that you have about the company with your salespeople. But don't forget to make sure that you're also sharing the information with your customers. It's a good idea to have a "customer information" page on your website. This page should contain information about the company, its products, and its services. It should also contain information about the company's history, its mission, and its values. This information can help your customers to better understand the company and its products, and it can also help them to make more informed decisions about whether or not to do business with the company.
