The new investors, who have the right to buy out the current shareholders (the "Buyout Fund"), also can make the acquisition, now about four weeks earlier than it is expected to be under the original deal to finance a deal. The fund's initial investment would be up to $10 million, and the final amount could be as much as $15 million. The firm, which has been working with the Buyout Fund since last summer, says the deal will be completed by the end of the year.
