South Lodge under the management of James and Charles Fitzgerald, the Corkish gentlemen who have resided there during the past year. The new building is a fine Gothic villa, situated just at Tralee Bridge. It is built of stone, and is surrounded by a fine lawn. The interior is most comfortable. Mr. Fitzgerald is a man of great energy, and has made a success of his undertaking. The house is well-furnished, and is a credit to its owners.
