Dear Miss,

Our editing company has published the best works of the authors who won Nobel's reward for the literature.

We are informed from Nobel's committee of Swedish Academy, that you won this reward in the year 1945.

We take the liberty in addressing to you asking you for the permission to translate into our language and publish your two best works. We are interested mostly in novels and in stories. The poems are more difficult to translate, in translation they loose their originality.

Therefore we beg you to send us:

two books of your best works, which you are willing to give us for the translation, and your conditions under which we can publish them.

If you have transmited your author's right to a certain company, we ask you to forward our letter to them with your recommendation. We kindly ask you to inform us about it, as soon as possible.

We look forward to your agreement and remain

yours faithfully
