Dear Doris:

Would you mind checking the address of Da Cal in the Manhattan telephone book and mailing this letter. I jotted the address down on a slip of paper on Roslyn but left it there.

Did herself's books come from California yet?

I sent her a book of modern Spanish poetry I just received from Spain--the type is large and clear I think she will enjoy it.

On my return your "DON'T FORGET" note was awaiting me--informing me that Saint Subber Inc. has definitely decided that you're the girl. Poor thing! I'm glad you have the consolation of the green chair. I think, though, that I'd prefer to "FORGET" all the misery that you have before you. When the play finally gets to Broadway you will probably not even want to see it. MY, BUT HOW CHEERFUL YOUR ARE, MISS BATES!!

This morning I received the toothbrush and hook--muchas gracias.

I'm glad all goes well at Roslyn. I'm sorry I could stay such a short time but it's do or die this summer--my little vacation did me the world of good.

The transit strike is still on. . . Dios mío!

I read the prose articles of gm on the train. You will be receiving a few pages soon to show to Miss E.

Un gran abrazo de
M. B.
