Dear Miss Dana:

News of Gabriela Mistral's passing reached me in February, and like those of you who knew her best, I was saddened. My sympathy goes to you in bereavement for a friend and companion, the Divine Gabriela.

My reason for writing is this: Recently I was informed by the American Association of University Women that I have been given a grant to study the evolution of Gabriela Mistral's career in education, literature, and diplomacy. I expect to do my research in Washington, New York, and Chile. As it appears now I shall be in New York in August or September and I am hoping to be able to use the Columbia University library.

I am making inquiry concerning source material you may have in your hands and concerning personal papers of Miss Mistral to which you may direct me. I shall appreciate, believe me, whatever advice or assistance you may give me so that I can make my study the contribution for which it has the potential.

Sincerely yours,

Edna L. Furness
