Dear Miss Alcayaga:

I am submitting for your criticism, two of your own poems which I have turned into English with the help of Spanish teachers in the Woodrow Wilson High School, where I used to teach.

Circumstances did not permit me to study any of the modern languages. This has been a very grievous disappointment to me, because I realize that much of the very best literature has been written in other languages than mine.

Mr. Robinson and Miss Oxley have tried hard to give me as accurate literal interpretations of these poems as possible, so if I have failed to convey something of the spirit of them the fault is mine alone.

May much of the peace and gladness of the Christmas Season be yours.

Very sincerely,

Josiah Nathan Nutter
