1. The first step is to identify the problem or question that needs to be answered. This involves understanding the context and the specific requirements of the task.

For example, some governments are also keen to ensure that a national network can be used to coordinate support. Furthermore, as private sector involvement in the public sector grows, governments are increasingly turning to private companies to deliver public services. In the UK, a national network is being created to deliver services to a range of users, including the police, fire, ambulance and health services. The network will be used to coordinate the response to emergencies and to provide a range of other services, including the delivery of emergency services. The network will also be used to provide a range of other services, including the delivery of emergency services. The network will also be used to provide a range of other services, including the delivery of emergency services.
