“There are difficulties in the process of this programme which are not yet resolved.
These are mainly in the area of the relationship between the different parts of the programme. There is a need to develop a more integrated approach to the various components of the programme. This will involve a better understanding of the different needs and objectives of the different parts of the programme.
It will also involve a more effective way of coordinating the different parts of the programme.
This will help to ensure that the programme is more effective and
achieves its objectives.
It will also help to improve the quality of the programme and make it more attractive to participants.”

includes news about the area and other things going on in your local area.

Consequently, the following are the recommendations for the future:
1. The first is to get the public to realize that the present system is not working and that something must be done.
