The specific threat we believe we must address is the growing gap between the needs of the community and the resources available. This gap is widening, and it is widening because of the increasing costs of the services we provide. We must find ways to reduce these costs, and we must find ways to increase the resources available to us. We must find ways to make our services more efficient, and we must find ways to make our services more effective. We must find ways to make our services more accessible, and we must find ways to make our services more affordable. We must find ways to make our services more sustainable, and we must find ways to make our services more resilient. We must find ways to make our services more innovative, and we must find ways to make our services more responsive. We must find ways to make our services more transparent, and we must find ways to make our services more accountable. We must find ways to make our services more inclusive, and we must find ways to make our services more equitable.
